

GOVERNMENT AWAITS ACTION OF ASSEMBLY

POSSIBLE DELAY ON NEW LAND BILL IN LOWER CALIFORNIA HOUSE MAY PERMIT AN AMENDMENT.

BRYAN KEEPS SILENCE

Secretary of State Does Not Care to Embarrass Administration by Endorsing Any Specific Measure.

Washington, April 30.—Probably not until the legislative status of the substitute alien land-owning bill adopted by the California senate last night, clarifies, will it be possible for the administration here to determine upon its next steps.

There is little expectation here that the assembly will reverse the action of the senate in view of the reported breaking down of party lines in the legislature, but it is believed that the delay may give the chances for the introduction of some amendment on the lines of the Webb bill which presumably would have received the approval of the national government.

Explaining Bryan's attitude, it is pointed out by officials here that the administration desires to keep the question of attempting to control the proceedings of the legislature, confining itself to the effort to limit the legislation within treaty rights and sound national policy.

Also, it is said that the state department should be left unembarrassed by any commitment in advance of negotiations with the Japanese government, which now seem certain to follow, instead of the certain exchanges that have been taking place.

DRIVEN FROM DAYTON WITHOUT THEIR WAGES

One Hundred Sixty-Seven Penniless Men Shipped to Chicago, Claim of Being Treated Unfairly.

Chicago, April 30.—One hundred and sixty-seven penniless men who said they had been working at Dayton clearing up wreckage left by the recent flood and who asserted they had been "dropped" from the payroll without receiving wages which they said were due them, arrived here today. They explained their plight at the police station and the matter was laid before the United States marshal, a few of them being held in custody.

Robert Abbie, one of the number, said work was slack in Cincinnati and he left his family to get work at Dayton.

"I was hired by the city at $2 a day to work on the street," he said. "I worked with hundreds of others until yesterday afternoon when some soldiers came and herded us aboard a train. One of the soldiers told us that their orders were to get rid of undesirable and that we came under that heading. We did not know where we were going until the train started. One of the soldiers told us that the train was bound for Chicago. Some of us had no chance to get our baggage before we left."

Joseph Brown of Cincinnati and Joseph Crasowski of Cairo, Ill., told similar stories. The latter said that he had $14 coming to him when he was deported and that some one told him the money was paid to buy his railroad ticket.

AMERICAN TOBACCO MEETS COMPETITION

Italian Government Gives Testimony Before Congressional Tobacco Commission.

Washington, April 30.—Competition is not unknown to foreign governments buying American tobacco, according to W. G. Dunnington, buyer for the Italian government, who testified before the joint congressional tobacco commission. Until about three years ago Mr. Dunnington was also a buyer for the Austrian government.

"Tobacco is cheaper now on warehouse floors than it was three years ago," Mr. Dunnington said, but he was unable to give an explanation for the decrease in price. He expressed the opinion that the character of the crops did not account for it. He also declared the Italian government was willing to meet competition.

"I pressed the belief that had it not been for the competition of the Italian government, the Kentucky growers would have been able to produce a profitable business. The committee adjourned indefinitely."

TEACHERS OF KENTUCKY MEETING IN LOUISVILLE

Special to the Gazette.

Louisville, Ky., April 30.—An army of school teachers invaded Louisville today and will remain in possession of the city until the end of the week. JEFFERSON MEMORIAL IS DEDICATED TODAY

Beautiful Building Forms Most Striking Legacy to St. Louis of 1904 World's Fair.

St. Louis, Mo., April 30.—The Thomas Jefferson Memorial, which is to be dedicated here late this afternoon, forms with the St. Louis Art Museum, the most striking legacy of the World's Fair of 1904.

The Memorial—a temple of stone—stands at the main entrance of the World's Fair grounds in the western part of Forest Park, the city's largest playground, and almost at the foot of the hill on which stands the Fine Arts Center, the Exposition's permanent building of the great fair of nine years ago.

Beautiful in Details.

The Jefferson Memorial has a frontage, including the central arch and the two wings, of 350 feet. The arch is about 70 feet deep, and the great dome that surrounds it is 60 feet in diameter. Each wing is 55 feet deep. Within the arch is a colossal statue of Thomas Jefferson carved from Italian marble, the work of Karl Bitter, who was director of sculpture at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

Leading to the Jefferson statue, which is under the open dome, is a fact of the mammoth all the city. In one wing of the building is Jefferson Hall, a room in which conventions or meetings of patriotic societies may be held. Three rooms around Jefferson Hall are to be converted into a museum for the records and relics of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

To House Collections.

In the opposite wing will be housed the collections of the Missouri Historical Society. In this collection are archaeological specimens from all parts of the original Louisiana purchase territory, an accumulation of forty years, the priceless library of the historical society which contains thousands of manuscripts and letters and diaries illuminating the history of the trans-Mississippi country, an Indian collection of more than 30,000 pieces, and oil paintings of the governors of Missouri and of the Louisiana territory. Among the relics is a sundial from the Jackson home at Monticello.

Cost a Half Million.

The building cost approximately $450,000. This sum came from three sources: the federal government, the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Company, and the City of St. Louis. The $450,000 represents the balance remaining from the exposition to which congress and the city each contributed five million dollars. The original appropriation provided that after all the exposition affairs had been liquidated, as much of the surplus should be sent to the government as was needed to the exposition company. A similar proviso was made by the City of St. Louis in the exposition bond issue. In lieu of the reversion of the surplus to the original parties to the exposition, the city and the exposition company agreed to use the fund for the building of a lasting memorial to Thomas Jefferson. The city gave the site, the building marks the completion of the park of the exposition. The part of the exposition which had been expended in which $2,000,000 has been expended.

LITHUANIAN BARON HELD FOR MURDER

Wealthy Landlord Arrested at Warsaw Charged With Killing of His Wife's Brother.

Warsaw, April 30.—A sensation was caused here by the arrest of Baron Bistand, one of the wealthiest landlords of Lithuania, on the charge of murdering Prince Lagislas Duclak, his brother by marriage, whose body was found in the park adjoining his residence in Warsaw. He left his house on April 22, with Baron Bistand for the railway station. When the prince did not return a search was made for him and his body found in the park with his carriage and horse standing near by. The arrest of the Baron followed his evidence at the inquest which the police allege was contradictory, regarding the last few moments the two men spent together.

BRIDE SHIVERS IN COLD TO BE NEAR HUSBAND BUT CAN'T EVEN TALK TO HIM

New York, April 30.—From midnight until eight this morning a bride sat shivering on the steps of the Grant Tomb within speaking distance of her husband but was not even allowed to converse with him or to see him. She was the wife of Lewis Baumann, a patrolman on six posts to whom she was married last night. Baumann had expected to be relieved from duty but an unfortunate volte capitaine ordered him to his post as usual so his bride decided to keep watch with him. Under the rules police on six posts are not allowed to talk with citizens except in the discharge of duty. The pair left arm in arm this morning.

GEORGETOWN SEISMOGRAPH RECORDS AN EARTHQUAKE

Washington, April 30.—An earthquake was recorded on the seismograph at Georgetown yesterday early in the morning. The main displacement was east and west, the distance appearing to be outside the 5,000 mile zone from Washington. The first of the disturbance began at 6:50 a. m. and continued until after 8:00. The intensity was moderate.

FARMERS EXEMPTED FROM SEMI-MONTHLY PAYMENT OF WAGES

Amendment to Measure Passes After Vigorous Argument and Bill is Ordered Engrossed.

Madison, Wis., April 30.—Nearly half the members of the assembly present last night took part in the debate on a bill requiring payment semi-monthly of wages to farm employees, and it finally was ordered engrossed by a vote of 55 to 30. The controversy settled on an amendment by Axel Johnson proposing to exempt employers of four persons or less. By a vote of 40 to 10 the city members protested against what they called class legislation. Burke, Walsh, Everett, Roessler, Peavey, Kneen, and others appeared against the amendment. Anderson said that if it were adopted the supreme court would knock it out as being class legislation. Despite the many objections made to the amendment it was adopted by the large vote of 71 to 16. An amendment by Burke exempting clerks from the requirement was rejected. Jennings said it would entail an expense of $25,000 for extra bookkeeping in Milwaukee. He favored the bill itself, however. Assemblyman Manning protested strongly for the bill. The only argument he had heard against it was that semi-monthly payment of wages would be giving the working class a chance to get drunk twice a month instead of once. This he called an insult to the working people.

REJECT POSTPONEMENT

By the following vote the assembly refused to indefinitely postpone the bill:

For indefinite postponement: Battis, Chinnock, Conway, J. Dietrich, Doan, Dorn, Everett, Judson, Hall, Hamata, Hansen, Heden, Hinkel, Hood, Jenson, Lentz, Rumph, Rosenthal, Scanlan, Smart, Stemmer, L. N. Stewart, T. A. Stewart, Teifer, Urquhart, Viebahn, Ziller, 30.

Against indefinite postponement: Allison, Anderson, Bartingale, Burke, Clancy, Clary, Cluskey, Dietrich, Engstrom, Eshbrook, Frederick, Gannon, Goff, Gorecki, Gudick, Gulickson, Don C. Hall, Hawn, Holmes, Hurst, Jennings, Axel Johnson, L. L. Johnson, Klefer, Kneen, Larsen, Lawrie, Minkler, McNabb, Meland, Miller, Pfenning, Potts, Rieha, Richardson, Roethke, Rosa, Schilling, Schindler, Schmitzler, Sharp, Smith, Sommerfeld, Spoor, Stein, Walsh, Whiteside, Ziller, 55.

ONE DAY REST BILL

The assembly split on a bill providing for one day's rest in seven. An amendment by Assemblyman Hansen exempting operators of railroad trains was adopted after a hard fight, by a vote of 48 to 40. Anderson moved reconsideration of the vote on the amendment, but action was deferred. The argument advanced for the exemption was that federal laws already gave a state the right to prohibit the running of certain trains on Sunday. Despite the fact the bill does not prescribe Sunday work but calls for "one day's rest in seven," the amendment was adopted. The vote on the bill was deferred.

MILITIA IS UNABLE TO PREVENT RIOTING

H. C. Twine Plant Strikers Engage in Riots at Auburn Today—Several Arrests Made.

Auburn, N. Y., April 30.—The militia called out last night did not prevent rioting at the International Harvester Company's twine mill here. There were several pitched battles between police, soldiers, deputies and strikers. Six strikers were arrested, three of them women. The strikers fought all the way from their sex and were taken to police headquarters, biting, scratching and kicking.

WOMEN SELF TO PIECES BY USE OF DYNAMITE

Ladysmith, W. Va., April 30.—Blowing himself to pieces with dynamite was the method adopted by Peter Fluri, a wealthy farmer who left his wife and children to support the jury he was opposing. He was killed by a stick of the explosive on the ground he attached a fuse to the cap and after lighting the fuse deliberately lay on the charge. His body was mangled by the blast. An alleged quarrel with his wife was given as the reason for the deed. He had been using dynamite to blast stumps on the farm.

AUSTRIA'S ATTITUDE IS BEING CLOSELY WATCHED

Paris, April 30.—The attitude of Austria Hungary toward Montenegro is watched both by the government and the public with strained attention. The disquietude on the Bourse was deeper today than at any time since the Balkan war began.

MEXICAN FACTION FORCES AMERICANS TO PAY A RANSOM

Opponents of Huerta Regime at San Dimas Instill Fear Among American Residents.

Washington, April 30.—Mexican constitutionalists at San Dimas, have forced Americans there to pay ransom of $5,000 Mexican dollars and confiscated their arms. Official reports today from Mazatlan say great unrest prevails among American residents there as the Huerta forces are said to be insufficient to protect property.

INSTRUCTED VERDICT IS DENIED BY COURT

Chicago Judge Refuses Petition to Find Two Election Commissioners Guilty of Crime.

Chicago, April 30.—The petition of John Maynard, chairman of the State Board of Election Commissioners, to instruct the grand jury to be instructed that the two election commissioners who signed the order for voting machines valued at one million dollars were "guilty of crime" in so doing was refused by Judge Burdett today.

VOTE RETRENCHMENT IN CASE OF CAVALRY

German Army Bill Will Provide For But Three New Cavalry Regiments.

Berlin, April 30.—The German Army bill was again before the budget committee of the imperial parliament today. An important amendment was voted, the demand of the government for six new cavalry regiments being cut down to three. This change was adopted by 16 to 12, some of the committee members arguing that "cavalry is becoming less necessary owing to the development of aviation and the virtual abolition of cavalry charges. The further motive for the reduction of this arm of the service was advanced by one member who declared that the officers of cavalry regiments were snobbish."

HIGH MARK REACHED DURING PAST YEAR

Cost of Living Arrived at Highest Level (in Year) in 1912 Says Bureau's Report.

Washington, April 30.—During the latest part of 1912 the cost of living in the United States was at its highest level. The bureau of labor statistics has just issued a report on retail prices from 1890 to 1913. The lowest cost was reached in each of the geographical divisions and in the United States as a whole in 1890. From that year to 1912 the total increase in the cost of living per year for a working man's family by geographical divisions was: North Atlantic $169, South Atlantic $152, North Central $187, South Central $152, West $152. The approximate cost of a year's food supply for an average workingman's family at average prices of each year by geographical divisions for 1890, 1896 (the low year), and 1912 was:

North Atlantic	$135	$200	$162
South Atlantic	274	265	417
North Central	299	276	483
South Central	268	255	441
Western	309	277	429

DEMOCRATS THWART ATTEMPTS TO AMEND UNDERWOOD MEASURE

Republicans Fail to Have Arguments Taken Seriously in Tariff Debate in the House.

Washington, April 30.—Consideration of the Underwood bill was resumed at the opening of the House today when the republican leader, Mann and his lieutenant, particularly Representative Payne of New York, Moore of Pennsylvania, Gardner of Massachusetts and Green of Iowa resumed "thinking" the democrats who framed the measure.

DEMOCRATS HAVE GIVEN EVERY INDICATION OF FIGHTING THE SCHEDULE

Along the line avoiding, however, the useless delay that would be caused by a record vote. The democrats propose to have night sessions continuously until the bill is voted upon and sent upon its way to the big battle between the two parties in the Senate.

UNDERWOOD IN CHARGE

Democrat, who guided the measure through the House is said to be in direct charge as each schedule is read by the member of the committee who had charge of that schedule during committee deliberations.

REPRESENTATIVE MANN, A LEADER OF THE OPPOSITION, AND FORMER CHAIRMAN PAYNE OF THE WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE, HAVE MOVED DOWN TO THE FRONT OF THE HOUSE

Consideration of the Underwood bill was resumed today at the outset of the session. Down Minor Amendment. An important amendment, Mann, began pointing it out from the minority side, but Mr. Underwood with his large majority well in hand, defeated them one after another.

Baseball critics in the west end of the American League declare that the Cleveland Naps are the pennant hopes of the west. As one writer says, "The Naps are taking advantage of every error in the opposition. They are playing inside baseball." They are playing inside baseball.

The board of appeals of the American Trotting Association, meeting in May, will have to settle the case of the trotter, Maud, who has been entered in the M. and M. race by Tommy Murphy. There is a mix up over the record of this mare and it is up to the body to decide whether her mark is 2:22 1/2 or 2:23. The lower mark would prohibit her from entering the Detroit Grand Circuit classic.

The famous race horse, White Knight, has been sold in London for $200,000, a figure believed to be a record price for a single horse. "This horse was one of the greatest stayers" in the last decade. He twice won the Ascot cup as well as the Goodwood cup.

Sir Thomas Lipton, waiting the reply of the New York Yacht Club to his unconditional challenge to a race for America's cup, is quite peeved that the club has referred the matter to a committee and is taking its time about answering. "It didn't take the club any time at all to turn down Sir Tom's previous conditional challenge."

Eddie Plank, veteran southpaw pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics and of the American League, performed like a youngster the other day and held the New York Yankees to three hits and no runs. The kid merely fanned ten of the opposition.

Price-winning horses worth $200,000 will be shown at the Washington horse show which opens May 2. Capitol society will make it a gala event.

That the college rowing season is really in progress is shown by the fact that news comes of frequent shake-ups by disgruntled coaches. The Penn crew has been the latest agitated in this fashion. "Coach" Williams has promoted Merrick from the second shell to the varsity.

Joe Birmingham, manager of the Cleveland Naps, thinks that ballplayers born and reared in the south generally are the best batters. The sky is always so bright down there, in his idea, that Dixie native has unusually sharp eyes. "That's the reason," says he, that Jackson, Spenser and Cobb are the hardest hitting outfielders in the American League.

Walter Johnson, said by many to be the greatest pitcher in the world, is soon to take a wife. Miss Anna Scout said to have asked a two weeks' absence for his marriage after the conclusion of the series between the Washington and the Boston Red Sox.

According to James E. Sullivan, athletic director of the Panama Exposition, that fair will see the first straightaway quarter-mile race ever run. The race usually is run around a circular or oval track.

Eppa Rixey, hold-out pitcher, has joined the Philadelphia Nationals. The big southpaw appears to be in great shape and is anxious to get into a game and show the form that made him a sensation last season.

er American League teams, they will be so far out in front by July 4, that they can stop and rest up for the world's series.

"Dead Valley." Jim Scott has surprised Chicago fans with his classy pitching for the White Sox. Jim was in poor condition last year, but looks like a winner this season.

It begins to look as if the Boston Braves were again doomed. A week of stallings will have to do a heap of figuring if he succeeds in bringing his crew to the surface.

Pitcher Falkenberg and Catcher Carisch, of the Cleveland Naps, are a genuine "come back" battery. Both were formerly with the Naps, but performed with Toledo last season.

Pitcher "Dutch" Klawitter looks strong enough to take a regular berth with the Detroit Tigers. He had a trial with the Giants a couple of years ago, and last season pitched for the Portland team of the Pacific Coast League.

Up to date Manager Johnny Evers, of the Cubs, has had a little something on his old pals, Frank Chance and Joe Tinker. The Cubs have been displaying better wares than either Tinker's or the "Fearless Leaders" Highlanders.

The initial practice under the leadership of Coach Curtis was held yesterday afternoon at the Driving Park. There were about twenty hopeful candidates on the diamond, getting their eye both at batting practice and fielding practice. A wealth of material is already assured, for the large squad present last night, and the local high school is certain of being able to put a championship team on the field Saturday afternoon for the first game with the Beloit high school here. Council is likely to pitch on Saturday with Edler and Ryan on the firing line also. Edler or Hemming will hold the backstop position for the locals. The remainder of the positions have not been definitely filled.

The park is in good condition with the exception of the outfield, which will be graded down before Saturday. It is understood that Beloit has a nine and while they have had much practice over the locals, Connell believes he can hold them down to a few hits.

The organizing of a baseball team is something new in the local school as this will be the first nine in many years. The entire student body is enthusiastic over possibilities of another championship team this year, and a large crowd is expected to be present at the first game Saturday.

On Friday afternoon at the Driving Park will occur a baseball game between the Freshman class and sophomore class of the high school. This game will settle the supremacy of the two classes, last fall, the two classes fought in football, but as the weather was not favorable for their playing off the tie they are determined to settle it by having a game of baseball. The game should be a good one, as both classes are represented by very strong teams, and by two good pitchers. Roy Ryan will twin for the Freshmen, while Harley Badger will oppose him on the second-year team.

W-I. LEAGUE TEAMS OPEN SEASON TODAY

Central Association, New York State, and Tri-State Leagues Play First Ball Games.

Schedule of opening games:
Appleton at Milwaukee.
Oshkosh at Madison.
Wausau at Rockford.
Green Bay at Racine.

Interest in baseball circles in Wisconsin today centers in the opening games of the Wisconsin-Illinois league which begins its ninth season.

The only new team in the league is the Milwaukee aggregation which under the management of Charles F. Moll and Al Landgraf, promises to make a surprising showing.

The Oshkosh Indians, winners of the 1912 season, are expected to have another crack organization with an entire new pitching staff. The Indians open at Madison and then go to Rockford for Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Local interest is keen in the Madison team, which Butters, a local player, has been trying out as pitcher.

The teams will line up about as follows:
Racine—First base, Reynolds; or Lechman; second base, Manager Fox; shortstop, Goede; third base, Novark; or Zellers; outfield, Mahoney, Hensel, Novark or Zellers; pitchers, Kench, Clark, Holker or Conway; catcher, Burgen, Hurley or Ramsey.
Green Bay—Catcher, Erickson; pitchers, Wells, Ormsby, Bryant, Hennessy or Hendrick; first base, Mollwitz; second, Cheigord, McCabe or Schuler; third base, Manager Lynch; shortstop, Thomas; left field, Chouard, Bauman, Kavanaugh or Walsh.

Appleton—Catcher, Ulrich; pitcher, Graham; Keenan, Hurlbut; Murphy, Shinnors, Van Patter, Scanlon or O'Brien; first base, Zabel or Allen; second base, Miller; left field, or Looze; third base, O'Brien or Berger; shortstop, Evans or Quille; outfield, Sylvester, Tiffing, Duffy or Hett.

Wausau—Catcher, Lundine; pitcher, Carroll or Bailes; first base, Kelly; second base, Wais; third base, Beaver; shortstop, Nagel; outfield, Malloy, Giesel and Carlsto.

Madison—Catcher, McDonald; pitcher, Johnson; first base, Mills; second base, Freeman; third base, Tully; shortstop, Hadley; left field, Bay (manager); right field, Caffyn; right field, Stewart.

BATTERY EXPECTED TO PLAY LARGE PART IN STRUGGLE OF WHITE SOX FOR PENN'NT

Benz and Schalk are expected to swing into the flame of publicity as one of the winning batteries of the American League this season.

The youthful Schalk, declared the best catcher in the American Association last year, joined the White Sox toward the close of the season and at once became known as one of the best prospects in years. He has kept up his good work this spring.

Benz has been pitching for the White Sox a couple of years, gradually improving. This spring he seems to have come into his own. He showed great form against the Cleveland Naps in the second game of the season, and critics expect him to do far better than his 13 wins and 17 loss of last season.

Benz and Schalk may yet take rank as one of the famous batteries.

STARTLES CRITICS WITH HIS ANTICS

Donie Bush.

Donie Bush, the diminutive shortstop of the Detroit Tigers, has been one of the sensations of the young American League baseball season.

He has shown all of the ability which a couple of years back marked him as easily the best shortstop in the league. He has hit the ball hard and timely. His work in fielding has bordered on the piratical, so many base hits has he stolen from the bases and an inspiring lot of pepper for the benefit of his teammates.

CIVIC NEEDS.

Janesville has many needs that are imperative. Rome was not built in a day, nor can the custom and usage of years be overturned in a few short weeks or months without a sudden uprising on the part of citizens who believe their rights have been violated.

The commission form of government gives many powers to the mayor and two commissioners that were hitherto used by the common council for their own personal ends.

This is indeed fortunate as it really takes the question of city government out of the hands of the politicians. A year ago the council employed a visiting nurse whose work in the schools and homes throughout the city has already demonstrated the value of the move.

Now they should go further and create the office of city physician, not a city health officer, for this important office is needed as a separate part of the city government.

A city physician is needed, with police powers and sufficient authority to make a personal investigation of conditions that exist throughout the city of suspicious cases, which might be contagious diseases, where no family physician was called, and to work with the visiting nurse in the city schools.

Madison has such an officer and the description of the work he has accomplished in the Capital city shows the necessity for such an officer in every city in the state.

It is worth considering and such an officer would find plenty of work throughout the city that would not interfere with the practice of any physician and would prove a valuable adjunct to the city government.

SELF-CONSCIOUS STATEHOOD.

More than most of us like to admit, this country breeds the sort of citizens who prate about his rights and forgets about his duties. He cannot walk in the street without neglecting the rule of the road and making a nuisance of himself. He does not realize that he is in partnership with society, and that he must contribute his share to the privileges that organized society alone can give.

His principal defect is self-consciousness, and in his collective form he answers to the name of California.

California wants the protection and advantages her forty-seven partners can give her; but she has no respect for their convenience and safety where her own comfort is concerned.

She is self-conscious, in fact, lacking the easy certainty good breeding and habit alone can give. She is the parvenu among the states, continually making mistakes, not from ill-will or bad faith, but from her anxiety to show she is as good as anybody else, which, as usual, defeats its own end.

A small fraction of one per cent of the cultivated fruit area of California is owned by certain Japanese. Their number is absolutely negligible, but their presence is distasteful to politicians of the "Sand lots" variety.

They are industrious, intelligent and skillful. They grow their fruit by scientific methods, and pack it in a way to make it acceptable in the eastern markets. They do not try any of the cheap little swindles practiced by the farmer who does most of his cultivation on the cracker barrel at the corner grocery.

The Japanese, in fact, is a good and useful member of society, and his chief fault is that he prefers to be his own master, and makes a success of it at that.

Of course he adds to the wealth of California, and would continue to do so, even if he remitted every penny of his savings to Japan. But he has exactly those virtues most repulsive to the Californian politician, who is about the cheapest variety of the breed. It is consequently popular there to talk flub-dub about the "white man's country" and the vices of the Mongolian, whatever they may be. For the moment the United States government is down on its knees to California, and Mr. Roosevelt, with his usual dexterity, is trying to show that he can obtain concessions not granted to the president of the United States. This is all wrong. California is a partner in our business and must act up to her responsibilities.

What seems to be needed is for the rest of the country to take her by the scruff of the neck and shake some decency into her.

The state legislature would perpetuate Mr. Ekern in office by making his office appointive by the state senate and not by the governor. This scrap between the two wings of the republican party is interesting to those on the outside but must cause lots of worry to the party leaders.

More commissions! Now comes the state legislature with a plan to name another commission to handle the health of the state. Five thousand dollars a year is the modest sum that each member is to receive and the taxpayer pays the freight.

Don't run away with the idea that the express companies have no use for the parcel post. They are giving it as the reason why their taxes should be reduced.

Can it be possible that the rescued portrait of Colonel Roosevelt is having a hypnotic effect upon Mr. Taft? The other day he expressed the opinion that the courts were not all they should be.

It is to be hoped that Ty Cobb realizes the good he has accomplished by consenting to go back to the game. Now he will neither run for congress nor go upon the vaudeville stage.

That grape juice served by Secretary Bryan isn't as harmless as he thought it was. It has produced a painful state of ferment in a number of London editors.

It seems there is one thing to be said for the insane Fourth: Its mangled victims were not in the habit of suing the city for $5,000 damages.

It is better to have presidential messages that can be carried personally to the capitol than those that require the use of a moving van.

Messrs. Clark and Bryan having buried the hatchet, it is plain that the next move is up to Messrs. Taft and Roosevelt.

In murder trials as in water supply problems the expert witness faithfully testifies in favor of the side that hired him.

Be a booster and join the Boosters' club. Sing out the slogan "Twenty-five Thousand or Bust," and see Janesville grow.

Possibly it will soon become necessary to create another cabinet office—Secretary of California affairs.

A New York policeman has been sent to Sing Sing for six years for grafting. But that's only one.

The tarheel member of the cabinet seems determined to knock the tar out of the navy.

Mr. Taft seems to like Yale College much better than he did the Electoral College.

A PURE MOMENT

The Wild West Indians. Poor Lo sat tailor fashion out in front of his sun burned tepee.

A stolid remnant of a mighty race of Indians was he.

A look amounting to contempt was written on his swarthy face. As he gazed meditatively into the sky's unbounded space.

He knew not whether he was old or middle aged or merely young. And dared not pass out salutations, thinking—as he knew—not our tongue.

What dreams of conquest on the plain must surely rest within that look!

If we could interview this brave, we knew that we could write a book. To gaze upon this simple child, untutored in our modern ways.

Brought back to mind the memories of what we'd read of Cooper's days.

We stood and marveled at this man, his presence much longer than we ought.

We had but one idea in mind and that to try and read his thought.

"What thinkest thou, oh simple child?" we summoned up nerve to ask.

He turned around and gazed at us, as though it were a tiresome task. "I'll tell you, kiddo," answered he, "my mind is quite distraught."

About a cooling system for a new six-cylinder I've bought. I've had nine automobiles now and worn them all right down to junk. And I'm determined this time not let them hand me any bunk."

The moral of the tale is this, that saucy feathers and much paint are very frequently put on to make things seem like what they ain't.

Memories. Scotty of Death Valley. Fourth of July orations. Crullers. Fuzzy nightgowns. Plumes on headdresses. The Midway Plaisance. Robson & Crane. Agnes Wallace Blossom. Ascot toes. Shoulder braces. The Duchess. Warm biscuits and honey.

Caught on the Fly. Chicago paper headline: "Amundsen Found South Pole in Undershirt." Huh, when Perry found the north pole had nothing on at all. That horse-drawn trust ought to be about as strong as any of them. One eastern man claims he can sing 6,000 songs, but he knows perfectly well that nobody will listen long enough to tell him so.

The electoral college will never be up-to-date and will never attract much attention until it has a foot ball team. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson can make excellent cake, but what the Democratic office seekers are interested in is pie. Dr. Woods Hutchinson recommends the hard boiled egg as a food. This should interest the millionaires, but let him discover something for the poor folks as well.

William Rockefeller may be speechless the rest of his life, but it must be remembered that money talks.

No man looks more like a saint in the eyes of the neighbors than the one who has all the snow off his walk by 6 o'clock in the morning.

Berlin has doubled the tax on dachshunds, which is all right, as dachshunds take up nearly twice as much room as other dogs, having a much longer wheelbase.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

THE FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH.

Ponce de Leon believed the fabled fountain of youth to be in Florida. Others before him and since have hunted over the earth for its magic waters.

They sought them as their brothers did the Holy Grail, El Dorado and even the kingdom of heaven. They dreamed that these happy and holy things had a physical existence, a local habitation.

Now most men have awakened to the truth that these names are only symbolic of things that are in the spirit of man and that they are not to be found in the outer world at all, but that they have a real being nevertheless.

The fountain of youth is in the heart. Those who drink of its waters never grow old in spirit.

They know that life is a never ending story and that old age is but the closing of one page before turning to the next.

He who has perennial interest, perennial hope, perennial love, has perennial youth.

For the mind is the man, not the body. Because the wagon in which I ride has grown old and creaky is no reason to say I am old.

Because my house is ancient and has sagging beams and doors awry is no sign that I have been touched by the years.

Because my body has been on earth a certain number of seasons is no proof that I, its occupant, am old.

My body is material, like my coach, my coat or my house, but I am not material. Neither am I subject to time. "I think, therefore, I am." It is the ability to say this which proves me to be made in the image of the Father.

Self-consciousness differentiates man from the beast. I am; therefore, I ever have been, and ever shall be. That which is real has no beginning or end. Only forms come and go. All that is eternal, Conscious eternality, is immortality.

This is the fountain of youth. There is no other. He who drinks of its magic waters shall not be touched by the years. He has opened his eyes to the truth and is free of the web of illusions. Time's shackles have been broken from his limbs.

He has breathed the airs of El Dorado; he has found the Holy Grail; he has seen the kingdom of heaven; he has drunk of the waters of perpetual youth.

Also Had Something to Praise.

The other morning my four-year-old cousin and her five-year-old friend were talking of all the hand-painted china their mothers had. The five-year-old one said: "My mother has a hand-painted sugar bowl and milk pitcher and some plates," and she mentioned several other things. Then my cousin spoke up and said: "Huh! That ain't anything; we got a hand-painted fence back in our yard."—Exchange.

One Greater Than Niagara.

Ages ago, scientists claim, before the melting of the Okanogan glacier in the state of Washington, the Columbia river made Niagara insignificant by comparison. It plunged from the upper to the lower valley in the Grand Coulee, a sheer fall of 400 feet.

Wait for Permission of Goddess.

A peculiar custom prevails amongst the Lewa Kunbi caste of Gujrat, India. They celebrate weddings only once in ten or twelve years, as their goddess permits. This year no less than 400 weddings were celebrated in the castle, a few days ago. The goddess had pronounced the day to be an auspicious one for marriages.

Neat Exchange of Compliments.

Two doctors met for the first time at a reception. Both were famous, though each adopted a different system of treatment. Said the one, loftily, as he shook the other by the hand, "I am glad to meet you as a gentleman, sir, though I can't admit that you are a physician." "And I," said the other smiling faintly, "am glad to meet you as a physician, though I can't admit that you are a gentleman."

Not Worth While.

There are so many grouches that you can't gain distinction by joining them.—Atchison Globe.

Didn't Know the Duke.

When, in 1883, Professor Freeman was examining Battle Abbey, he found himself dogged by a person, who, as he thought, somewhat officiously intruded his offers of assistance. After vainly trying to shake him off, he broke forth with: "I don't want your help. The duke of Cleveland promised that I should not be interfered with by the gardeners." "Exactly so," was the reply. "I hope they have obeyed my orders. I am the duke of Cleveland."

Public Service:

Growing up here through the years and keeping steady pace with the times this store has come to be a quasi-public institution. "To have what people want when they want it and at fair prices"—that might well be nailed up as a motto over the door. That principle is a part of the mental make-up of every member of this organization—or else the one who lacks it is in the wrong place and will soon gravitate somewhere else. "What the people want" is not alone new styles, but sound, reliable qualities; not alone offering of odd lots at special prices, but the certainty of finding the right size and style and color without waiting. To make the store measure up to these requirements at all times—even when there is a market scarcity of the right sort of merchandise—is the end to which we devote ourselves.

At a meeting of the executive com-

Tuesday as planned, owing to the fact that the Myers Theatre is en-

"Everything points to a successful launching of the new club," said Chairman Frank Croak of the committee, this morning. "We find the enthusiasm is growing and from reports we have received it is certain that we will have more than the required thousand members by Monday evening. In fact, reports last night on hand showed that the list was over eight hundred with at least two hundred more names on lists which have not been turned in yet."

Not only are there several individuals out for the prizes offered by the Southern Wisconsin Sand & Gravel Company, but we have lists placed in various places about the city which are being signed up rapidly. The fact that the ladies are interested and many of them have joined, even before we received the plans, shows that the movement is of city-wide interest and will fill a long-felt want.

"That the new club is recognized as an established fact and a civic organization of importance," is shown by the fact that members of the arrangement committee for the Commercial Travelers' convention to be held here in June, have already talked with members of the committee relative to the club taking part in the celebration and processions which the Travelers have made a decided feature of the conventions.

"We also discussed at last night's meeting plans for placing in nomination and electing of the board of directors, which we plan shall consist of nine members. No definite arrangements have been made in this regard, and the committee will have a second meeting later in the week to make final disposition of this question.
However, it is decided to handle this matter so it will be fair for all concerned and every member will have an opportunity to vote for the men of their choice."

By holding the meeting Monday evening instead of Tuesday, it will be necessary to have the competition lists all finished and handed in by noon of Monday next. This will only make the campaign one day shorter than originally planned. The following are some of the places that buttons can be obtained aside from the committees that are working.

TRAFFIC SAFEGUARD MATTER CONSIDERED

Council Discusses Adviability of Putting in Stub Light at Corner Main and Milwaukee Streets.

Methods of safeguarding the intersection of Milwaukee and Main streets for traffic by vehicles and pedestrians were discussed at the meeting of the council held yesterday afternoon. It was agreed that some means should be found of compelling vehicles to keep the right side of the street and turn the full corner in compliance with the amended automobile ordinance. One suggestion, made by Councilman Cummings, was that a large concrete post of ornamental design be placed in the center of the "Y" formed by the car tracks. This device, used in a number of large cities, is said to serve the purpose very well, and its making of cast iron, the council favored.

The favorite idea of Mayor Fathers is to install in the same place designated, a "stub" light. This would extend but a short distance above the ground and not interfere with the turning of vehicles. A red globe would be plainly distinguish-able during the day, and the light would call attention to it at night.

The council granted the application of Frank Lenz to transfer his saloon intersection of Court House park and to John McDermott. The bonds of the latter were accepted. To the firm of S. Hutchinson & Sons was awarded the contract to paint the display fountain at 220 West Milwaukee street and the Corn Exchange. Stone gray is to be the color, and two coats will be applied. The bid accepted was $18.

Division street, between East Milwaukee street and Court street, was ordered to be widened and graded. The Board of Public Works was ordered to view the premises and assess the benefits and damages that will result from the improvement.

Superintendent of Streets C. K. Mil-litt, directed the work on the Corn Exchange, east of Ringold street, with gravel. Adjournment was taken until Friday, May 2.

WILL LOCATE THE FOUNTAIN
AT THE CORN EXCHANGE

Decision to locate the fountain won by Janesville as a prize for the sale of Christmas seals, at the Corn Exchange, was made at the last meeting of the Anti-Tuberculosis association, according to an announcement made by Dr. M. A. Cunningham, at the meeting held at the Rockford hotel. It was decided that this location would make the fountain a convenience to the greatest number of people. The fountain is of metal and a simple and attractive design enameled in gray.

The fountain will be placed on the improved fountain that stands near the site of the old town pump and has given intermittent service.

ARRANGE SPECIAL TRAINS
FOR KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Beloit and Janesville Delegations to Whitewater Installation Will Leave Here Sunday at 8:45.

Special trains on the St. Paul road have been arranged to accommodate the Knights of Columbus. It was decided in this part of the state which will send delegations to the installation exercises at Whitewater on Sunday, May 4. A special train will start from Monroe and will accommodate Janesville and Beloit delegations leaving here at 8:45 a.m. A special train will run from Beloit to Janesville to meet the train leaving here. Another train will bring delegations from Delevan and Elkhorn by way of Eagle. Returning trains will leave Whitewater about ten-thirty in the evening.

BARON JOHN AVEBURY
IS EIGHTY YEARS OLD

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

London, April 30.—Baron Avebury, who is perhaps better known as Sir John Lubbock, which name he bore until his elevation to the peerage some years ago, entered upon his eightieth year today and was the recipient of congratulatory messages from many friends on both sides of the Atlantic. Primarily Baron Avebury is a banker and a very great banker too, one of the greatest in the city of London. He comes of a long line of eminent bankers, and he himself became a partner in Lubbock's Bank, in Lombard street, at the age of twenty-two. It is, however, by his scientific works on the ancient vestiges and remains of man that Lord Avebury has most distinguished himself. He has written numerous books on zoology, physiology and archaeology, and has lectured many times on those subjects before leading universities and scientific societies.

Really Not His Fault.

An illiterate young man once got a friend to write a letter for him to his sweetheart. The letter was rather profane for a love letter, and he felt that an apology was due to his sweetheart for its lack of tender nothings. It was as follows: "Please excuse the mild-ness of this letter, as the chap wrote it. It is a married man, and he says he can't bid any soft-soaping
—it allus gives him the spazzums."

Deftware Again in Favor.

SUMMER CAMP PLANS FOR THE BOY SCOUTS

TO BE LOCATED IN NORTHERN PART OF STATE IF PROJECT IS CARRIED OUT

A STATEWIDE AFFAIR

Movement is General in Its Scope and Would Include All Parts of the State in Its Membership.

The boy scouts are at work all along the line and are now beginning to plan for the great scout meet. Since the organization of the Boy Scout movement in Wisconsin, there has been from many quarters a demand for a summer camp, which should be owned and managed by the Boy Scouts themselves. A committee of scout masters and scout commissioners has taken this matter under consideration and has decided to make this preliminary announcement concerning the camp. An admirable camp site located in the northern part of the state has been offered and it seems certain that a first-class camping location will be secured, which shall be easy of access and yet sufficiently remote to furnish primitive wilderness and seclusion. The best of fishing, boating and swimming will be offered, with abundant space for games and play, such as tennis, baseball, golf, etc., and opportunities for trapping and nature study.

L. E. Hookout, local scout master, says of the plan: "This sort of a camp would appeal to boys when they would take no interest in a local camp for the simple reason that distance lends enchantment. The local scout movement is decidedly hampered because the public is not interested in its welfare, and there are other organizations for boys that do not call for the discipline of the scout organization. A scout organization cannot exist without discipline on the one hand, and public interest on the other. A camp owned and controlled by a state organization would draw a demand for the good of the scout cause, could be more easily and satisfactorily handled than in any other way."

The purposes of the camp may be summed up in the following: rational recreation. It is proposed to have more than a camp; it is the idea of the committee to found an outdoor school for the boys, where the healthful and educational phases of scoutcraft shall be presented and illustrated by experts from various parts of the state. Capable men of education, and from other institutions, have expressed their willingness to furnish instruction to both scouts and scout masters along the following lines: Woodcraft, and camp construction; swimming, fancy diving, methods of assisting in rescuing persons in the water; first aid to the injured in its many phases; camp cookery; fire-making; forest Indian method of food preparation; signaling and the Morse code of telegraphy; scout games and sports; photography; the study of birds, trees, and other forms of nature work; camp organization, leadership, parliamentary procedure. A stereopticon will be available for evening talks in camp with a large collection of slides illustrating nature study, scouting and athletics.

It has been thought best to start the camp work early in June to continue through July and August with the climax of the work and instructions given during the later months. Patrols of scouts would be received at any time for a period of a week or longer, but it would be expected that most of the boys would remain in camp for at least two weeks.

Financially, it is proposed to make the camping cost as reasonable as is consistent with the provision of good food, and camping accommodations. A charge of $4 a week for board will be made. Scout patrols will be expected to furnish their own tenting equipment, but tents may be rented by those who desire them.

The purposes of the camp and its equipment with the instruction along the lines indicated, will be quite considerable, and cannot be met by the boys in camp. For the purpose of organizing and conducting the movement, which is intended to be a permanent one in Wisconsin, a corporation is being formed to direct control of the management of the enterprise. Contributions and memberships will be collected and the following classes of members admitted into the organization:

A. Contributing members who shall give not less than $1 a year to the organization.
B. Sustaining members, who shall contribute not less than $5 per annum.
C. Patron members, who shall contribute not less than $25 per annum.
D. Life members, who shall contribute $100 at one time to the organization.

Promotion and Publicity. Daniel Sprague, a scout commissioner at large for the state of Wisconsin (who has had twenty years' experience in boy work), will act as agent and promoter. All letters of inquiry, and all contributions, should be made to Mr. Sprague, or to the committee. Mr. Sprague will be at liberty to present the matter of the camp to any group of scouts, or others interested, and is prepared to give an illustrated lecture in scouting and character building.

Further details may be had from the committee—J. C. Elson, M. D., University of Wisconsin; Prof. L. D. Uterzo, University of Wisconsin; P. D. Uterzo, U. S. Forest Products Laboratory, Madison, Wis.; Daniel Sprague, Neenah, Wis.; Com. State Scout Notes.

At Neenah the scouts are happy in the possession of cozy quarters with a small gym with some equipment, a game room also used for assembly room and reading room; all bills paid and ready for the year is provided for through the efforts of State Scout Commissioner Sprague.

At Stoughton the scouts have transformed a corner lot where the band stands into a park to be planted with flower beds and walks and when that is completed they will take in other improvements. Their slogan is "A More Beautiful Stoughton."

At Norwalk the boys are organized in three patrols and are actively at work with Prof. DeWitt as scout master.

STUDENTS COMPETE IN ESSAY CONTEST

L. C. Whittet Offers $25 in Prizes for Articles Written on Topics Pertaining to Edgerton.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Edgerton, April 30.—Hon. L. C. Whittet has given $25 in prizes in an essay contest open to school children. The subjects are as follows: What is the matter with Edgerton? What can be done for the youth of Edgerton? Edgerton's greatest need. How can the environment for the people of Edgerton be best improved? What do the young people of Edgerton want? Only talents and weaknesses. Who is responsible? How may they be corrected? Is "fun" too important as a consideration with us? How may we best remedy this mistake? That which I would rather see done for the betterment of my personal condition. First—Fifteen dollars will be offered in three prizes to high school pupils. First, $7.00; second, $5.00; and third, $2.50. Second—Ten dollars will be awarded to pupils of sixth, seventh and eighth grades. First, $5.00; second, $3.00; and third, $2.00. Third—No essay shall exceed fifteen hundred words in length. Fourth—The essays shall be completed by May 15. Miss Amelia Holland was a Janesville caller today. VIRGINIA GIRLS COLLIER'S SPONSOR

Miss Anne Seymour Jones.

Miss Anne Seymour Jones, daughter of Representative Jones of Virginia, christened the navy collier Nereus, which was launched Saturday at Newport News, Virginia. The launching was made quite a society event, and a luncheon followed it. The Nereus is one of the large type of navy colliers, which have received favorable comment at home and abroad. "Are You Constipated?" If so, get a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills, take them regularly and your trouble will quickly disappear. They will stimulate the liver, improve your digestion and get rid of all the poisons from your system. They will surely get you well again. 25c at People's Drug Store.

Combination of Languages.

The Hebrews who live in Germany speak the German language, using among themselves a peculiar dialect called "Yiddish," that term being itself a corrupt form of the German word Judisch. Russian Hebrews also use this language, while by a curious chain of historic events Turkish Hebrews speak Spanish. Printed Yiddish shows an interesting combination of languages, the words being essentially German, but printed in Hebrew characters.—Christian Herald.

Good Actions Live.

As shrubs which are cut down with the morning dew upon them do for a long time after retain their fragrance, so the good actions of a wise man perfume his mind, and leave a rich scent behind them. So that joy is, as it were, watered with these essences, and owes its flourishing to them.—Plutarch.

Had His Uses.

A gentleman, generous in his contributions for church purposes, but not regular in attendance at public worship, was described by a clergyman as being "not exactly a pillar of the church, but a kind of flying buttress, supporting it from the outside."

The Cause of Rheumatism.

Stomach trouble, lazy liver and deranged kidneys are the cause of rheumatism. Get your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels in healthy condition by taking Electric Bitters, and you will not be troubled with the pains of rheumatism. Charles B. Allen, a school principal of Sylvania, Ga., who suffered indescribable torture from rheumatism, liver and stomach trouble and diseased kidneys, writes: "All remedies failed until I used Electric Bitters, but four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me completely. Maybe your rheumatic pains come from your stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Electric Bitters will give you prompt relief. 50c and $1.00. Recommended by People's Drug Store."

For This Information.

The Gazette Classified Department Wants Information and Is Willing To Pay For It.

RAPID AS HAS BEEN THE GROWTH OF THE GAZETTE CLASSIFIED PAGE DURING THE PAST TWO YEARS—DURING THIS TIME IT HAS MORE THAN DOUBLED IN VOLUME—THE CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT WANTS TO SEE IT GROW FASTER. WE WANT TO MAKE IT OF MORE SERVICE TO THE USERS. WE WANT TO KNOW THE PEOPLE WHO ARE NOT USING THE PAGE AND WE WANT TO KNOW HOW IT PAYS THAT WE MAY ANALYZE THE CAUSE OF ITS GROWTH.

WIN THESE PRIZES

$2.50 for the best answer. $1.50 for second prize.
$1.00 for third prize. 50c for next two.

Answer These Questions:

DO YOU BELIEVE THAT CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING PAYS? WHY?

Give your own experience or that of some of your acquaintances to show what proved to you that the page was worth your consideration.

HOW WOULD YOU SUGGEST THAT THE PRESENT SERVICE OF THE CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT COULD BE IMPROVED?

Either in the re-arrangement of the Classified Page with more sub-headings or the establishing of more stations about the city at outlying stores or in any other way suggested.

HOW CAN THE PRESENT VOLUME OF CLASSIFIED BUSINESS BE INCREASED?

Are there businesses about the city that are not using the Classified Page that should be? Is there any class of people who could profitably use the page that are not now doing so; home workers, boarding housekeepers, etc?

In answering this question be definite. Give names of and addresses of such firms and private individuals as you suggest.

Prizes Will Be Awarded On the Actual Worth of the Answers and Not On Length.

but it is advisable that each contestant use sufficient space to give their thought in full. Be specific and not general. Oft times a sentence is worth more than a volume. Contest is open to anyone not connected with newspaper work in Rock County.

This contest will be open for 14 days and will close promptly May 14th. Send in your answers at once. Write on one side of paper and address:

For the Complete Five Volume Set of Everybody's Cyclopedia

$12.00 IS THE REGULAR SELLING PRICE

You will not need an extra book case to hold this complete set of books, for it takes up less than half as much space as the ordinary encyclopedia. Yet the information is all in it—thousands upon thousands of subjects which cover the entire world and its peoples. Think of the many advantages in having all this information in such convenient form that it can be referred to in a minute without the necessity of searching through numerous, large, unhandy volumes to get it! The convenience of this edition makes it far more desirable than any similar work published. It saves time in reference and it saves room in the library.

The price of large sets is usually so high, from $50 to $100, that they are sold on the installment plan. The publishers of "Everybody's Cyclopedia" took advantage of these facts, and from a revision of all large and good cyclopedias they compiled all that is good—all that is necessary—and merely eliminated or condensed that which would be of interest to a technical student.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

"HE WHO does not improve today will grow worse tomorrow."

An energetic young business man was telling me the other day about the splendid business of which he is one of the owners. "We are running full capacity in all our factories," he said proudly. "We have practically every bit of business we can handle."

"There is an error in your statement," I said. "You are not running full capacity in all your factories. You are running full capacity in the business of advertising."

"He had just been out to a campaign of advertising which he was about to start. 'If you have all the business you can handle, why are you trying to get more?'"

He laughed at my ignorance of business ways. "Because we have to grow constantly," he said. "If we were content to stand still we should soon find ourselves going backward. We'll get the business and then we'll find a way to handle it. There is no room now-a-days for any business that is not improving its methods and growing bigger and better every day."

I suppose every business man knows that. It is an axiom of twentieth century business conditions.

But why confine it to business? Isn't it just as true of life itself? Of you and me, and all the other human beings who are engaged in the greatest business of all—the business of living?

"There is no room in the business world for a business that is not growing." Neither is there any room in the world of human progress for a man or woman who is not growing. The business man who is content to let his business stand still will soon see it going backward. As our energetic and progressive cousin the Germans say, "He who does not improve today will grow worse tomorrow."

Progress is the inescapable law of life. When growth ceases decay commences.

Are you obeying that law?

Are you growing or are you decaying?

Are you going forward or backward?

It must be one of the two.

In what way mentally, morally or physically are you in better condition than you were a year ago at this time?

"Life is action up to the point of highest excellence," says a wise biographer. "And many who eat their three meals a day are not doing it."

That is because they have ceased to grow, and therefore have died inwardly, though outwardly and physically they still bear the semblance of life.

There are altogether too many people like this in the world. Let's not belong to such an over-crowded class.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Worth Knowing.

When the leather in chair seats, automobile cushions, or other leather cushions sticks to the clothing, dampen a cloth slightly with a mixture of ether and alcohol and sponge the leather, then wipe off with a clean flannel dampened with pure chloroform. Do not have fire about when using this mixture, and if the first treatment does not cure the trouble, repeat.

When planting radishes, if you will put salt down around them they will grow much nicer and will not become worm eaten.

Detachable sleeves—I wished to make a dress with white, yoke, and long sleeves of dark material. I finished off the armholes with gimp by binding and finished top of sleeves with a band to fit armhole of gimp, placed hooks on sleeves and eyes on armholes. The sleeves need not be washed with the gimp, and as the gimp is white it can be boiled with the white clothes.

When making doughnuts, grease baking board and flour it well before laying on dough to roll out. You will find dough will not adhere to board, neither will any superfluous flour adhere to doughnuts to be burnt in grease in which they are fried.

The Table.

Escalloped Eggs—Cook six eggs by boiling them 20 minutes. Let them stand in cold water until cool, so they will not discolor. While cooling, make the white sauce as follows: Melt one fourth cup butter, stir into it until smooth one fourth cup flour. Gradually stir into this one pint of liquid (half milk and half water). Cook, stirring constantly until it thickens and is smooth. Add one chopped green pepper and half teaspoon salt.

Remove sauce from the fire, stir eggs into it and pour all into baking dish. Sprinkle thickly over the creamed eggs a mixture of cracker crumbs and grated cheese. Place dish in oven and leave until cheese is melted and browned.

Beef and Cheese Salad.—Make cold, sliced beef into halves and slice it into thin slices. Sprinkle with a little oil, salt and pepper. Sprinkle with a little oil, salt and pepper. Sprinkle with a little oil, salt and pepper.

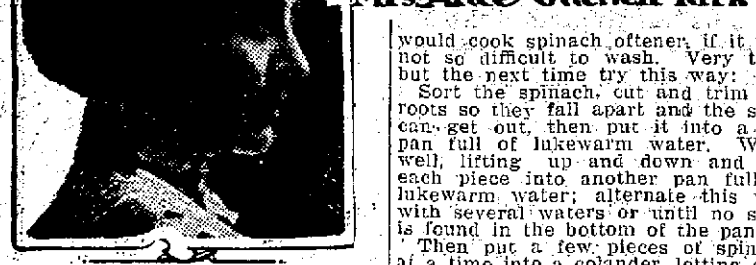

Caring for Canaries.

Thoughtless or improper care often results in suffering for a canary, if not ill health. The canary has been raised indoors many generations and very often suffers from being left in the open air. If placed outdoors some pretty day it may be forgotten and a change in the weather and sun may give it cold. It may be suffering from the cold, but the cause of the bird, it may result in a loss of voice, either temporary or permanent.

Also the bird should not be kept in a draft with the house and in the strong sunlight or hot weather.

During the cold weather the temperature is many degrees higher in the upper part of the room than in the lower, and the cage hangs on a hook too far from the floor. The canary may be much warmer than his keeper imagines, to say nothing of the vitiated air the bird is in when the cage is hung high.

Domestic Science DEPARTMENT

CONDUCTED BY Mrs. Alice Mitchell Kirk

would cook spinach oftener, if it was not so difficult to wash. Very true, but the next time try this way: Wash the spinach, cut and trim the roots so they fall apart and the sand can get out, then put it into a big pan full of lukewarm water. Wash well, lifting up and down and put a piece into another pan full of lukewarm water, alter it with several waters or until no sand is found in the bottom of the pans.

Then put a few pieces of spinach at a time into a colander, letting cold water run through it, rinsing well, remove and add more and rinse. If the work has been well done it should be free from sand and it is ready to cook.

To Cook Spinach.

Quite a little water has been left clinging to the spinach, quite enough to cook it in, so add no water to the kettle. Set over a slow fire, partly covered and cook until tender, about fifteen or twenty-five minutes. Season with salt and pepper and serve with lemon juice, hard boiled eggs and vinegar.

French people have many ways of serving spinach. Usually it is chopped fine and rubbed through a sieve, and sometimes seasoned with onion while cooking, then chopped, dressed with butter, cream and bread crumbs or butter, flour or beaten eggs and stock and cream soups.

Spinach Souffle.

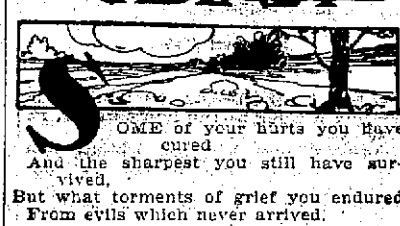

Material—Cooked spinach, two cups; white sauce, one cup; whites of eggs, three; grated onion, one teaspoon; lemon juice, one tablespoon; salt and paprika.

Directions.—Rub the cooked spinach through the sieve, add all the whites of eggs folded in last. Turn into a buttered mold or cups. Set them in hot water and bake in a moderate oven twenty minutes. Turn out and serve hot sprinkled with chopped parsley and rice or yolk of hard cooked egg.

Bar Moving Pictures.

Brookline, Mass., said to be the richest town in the world per capita, does not permit moving pictures. The children of wealthy parents must find other amusement. They know nothing of the delights of the "movies."

THE KITCHEN CABINET

DISHES TO TRY.

Select some of the large-sized onions, peel and take out the centers, leaving them cup-shaped. Boil gently ten minutes, then drain and fill with chopped chicken, seasoned and mixed with bread crumbs; add melted butter, salt and pepper and bake in a deep baking dish until tender. Dot with crumbs and butter, and brown. Serve with a white sauce.

Deviled Tomatoes.—Cook two eggs in the shell until hard, mash the yolks, add two tablespoonsful of butter, a teaspoonful of powdered sugar, a little salt and pinch of mustard, a dash of cayenne, then add a well beaten egg and three tablespoonsful of vinegar, and cook until smooth. Peel some tomatoes, dip the slices in seasoned flour and fry brown. Put into a hot dish and pour over the sauce.

Normandy Tomatoes With Eggs.—Cut small tomatoes in halves crosswise, dip in melted butter and fine crumbs and broil; put them where they will keep hot. Melt three tablespoonsful of butter, add a few eggs (four or five, according to the family to serve), which have been beaten with a tablespoonful of water for each egg; salt and cayenne. Stir and cook; add a few tablespoonsful of grated cheese and pour over well toasted bread which has been buttered. Lay on the tomatoes, broiled side up, and serve.

Baked Tomatoes With Peas.—Choose small round tomatoes, but do not peel them; wipe and remove the pulp from the stem end, dust with salt and pepper, and fill with seasoned peas. Put them in a saucepan with bits of butter on top; baste with butter and water, while cooking, and keep covered most of the time.

Cheese Tomatoes.—Make some round pieces of toast, and lay on a slice of tomato of equal size, sprinkle with a little minced onion, green pepper, salt and a dash of cayenne, and a thick layer of grated cheese. Put into a shallow pan and set under a gas flame until the cheese melts and browns and the tomato is cooked. Serve at once on a hot dish.

Nellie Maxwell.

In on the Top Jenkins. Wallstreet—"I'm told Jenkins is promoting a new industrial stock. Do you know what it is?" Broadstreet—"Yes, he has a patent for suspending guide posts and milestones in the air so that aviators can't lose their way."

Slightly Misunderstood.

"I have a perfect horror of embonpoint," said Mrs. Twigg. "So have I," chirped Mrs. Flinders. "There is always some kind of epidemic threatening our peace of mind."

EVERYBODY LOVES PRINCESS ILEANA

Princess Ileana.

One of the best loved little princesses in all Europe is four-year-old Princess-Ileana, youngest child of Crown Prince Ferdinand of Roumania. She has beautiful eyes and the walk of a little queen. She tyrannizes her father, who takes her to the "movies," every afternoon and shares with laughter at her funny remarks to the public.

CHAT WITH THINKING WOMEN

by Barbara Boyd

Life's Picnic

THE picnic season will soon be here, and we are all planning any number of delightful outings; and with well filled baskets will trudge joyously off to some delightful spot to enjoy ourselves according to our fancy.

We will work hard over those baskets. We will roast chicken. We will make dainty sandwiches. We will bake cake, and perhaps study out a way to take salad. And when we reach our destination, we will set the baskets down with a sigh of relief, for they are heavy, and wait rather impatiently for the time to come when we can fall to upon the feast.

And at last, we spread it all out, and our mouths water for the first bite of the delicacies provided.

And then we discover we have forgotten the salt!

What a catastrophe! How tasteless and without savor everything becomes! How our bright day clouds over!

And no matter how good our food may be, we eat it with a sense of disappointment and of lack.

In every way, isn't it suggestive of life? As Jerome K. Jerome says: "We slave at our desks, in our workshops, to make a home for those we love; we give up pleasures, we give up our rest. We tell in our kitchen from morning till night, and then we render the whole feast tasteless for want of a haporth of salt, at soupcon of amiability, a handful of kind words, a bit of a caress, a pinch of courtesy."

For these things are the salt of life; and without them life loses much of its savor.

Our life hamper may be very bountifully provided. We may have all that we need—the meat and drink, the clothing and shelter. We may indeed have many non-essentials—delicious, insubstantial sweets that nevertheless add much pleasure to life.

But no matter how substantially, or how luxuriously our hamper may be filled, if the salt is left out how dissatisfied we are.

If the wife gets no appreciation, no word of praise from her husband for all her efforts to make him a comfortable and pretty home, the comfort of that home lacks something for her.

If the husband receives no loving greeting after the day of toil, the best of dinners lacks relish.

If in the home life, no matter how full of material comforts it may be the little kind, courteous acts are forgotten, that home life is flat and with out pleasant pliancy.

For all these little things are the salt of life. They give it the savor and relish that makes it pleasant to one's palate.

So let's not leave out the salt from life's hamper. Let's be sure that no matter how well filled our hamper may be with good things, that there is also the word of appreciation, the thoughtful act, the little caress of love that adds just the delightful seasoning to make each day's living pleasant. And even though the hamper may be but poorly furnished, the seasoning is just as necessary, perhaps even more so.

These may seem little things. But so is salt a little thing. But we all know how much it adds to the enjoyment of the contents of the picnic basket.

Barbara Boyd.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Am a girl of nineteen and good looking. Have been keeping steady company for two or three months until lately I found him down because he does like to dress sporty. I like to see a boy dress nicely but not too sporty and I like to see them neat. I think a whole lot of him, but I know he doesn't care for me at all. But then he told me he never met a girl like me because I always gave a respectable word to him. I cannot forget him. I tried to, but I can't. (2) Who should speak first, the boy or the girl? (3) I would like to lose a friend like him. The only reason I have a very pretty boy because he wouldn't pay no attention to what I said. I always told him to be a good boy. (4) He sent some cards with somebody's else name on them. When I showed him about them he said, "Do you think it's right?"

BROKEN HEARTED.

My dear girl, this boy evidently cares nothing particularly for you, and you cannot really care for him or you would not be so particular about his clothes. Just forget him and get another fellow. You can do both, at your age, even though you think you can't.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl of seventeen and am engaged to a love with a high school professor. I am very tall and he is the only man that I have ever seen that is any way near my height. What can I do to gain his love? (2) I have a very expensive eye, but it has not a very pretty eye, but it has not a very pretty eye, but it has not a very pretty eye.

BEAUTY.

What can I do to beautify it? (3) I have a long thin neck. What can I do to make it plumper?

Send me a letter, gain his love if he has already bestowed it. How do you know he is not married or engaged? He may not care for your kind of girl at all. Simply be sweet and modest and cultivate your mind so that you may be interesting to other people. You will then attract desirable young men to you. Don't worry about your height and don't try to love a man to match it. Love a man for himself, not his size. (4) The expression of the eye means more than its shape. If you have beautiful thoughts your eyes will be beautiful. (5) Take singing lessons. Learn to breathe well. Massage gently with cocoa butter.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl eighteen years old, engaged to be married. I am a loveable kind, but he is not. Now that we are engaged I want to sit on his lap and kiss him but he won't let me. Do you think we would live happily together? (2) He is a very attractive man, is it possible he can be in love with another girl? (3) Every time he comes to see me he tells me he loves me better than his own life. If he did he would let me love him. (4) I would like to know if a girl and her fellow are in the parlor alone to turn the lights low? (5) How late should a man stay when he comes to call on a girl?

CUTIE.

(1) I am afraid you won't be very happy if your disposition are so different. Can't you love him just as

Won't Stand for That.

Mrs. Fitzwell (socially inclined)—"My dear, I have picked out a husband for you." Her Daughter—"Very well, but I tell you emphatically that when it comes to buying the wedding dress I'll select the material myself."

Shameless.

"Some of these actors must be shameless, as well as shiftless," asserted the woman with the angular jaw. "Why?" asked her husband. "Here is one, who advertises even on the billboard that he is supported by his wife."

well without being so demonstrative? He seems rather unnatural. (2) I doubt it. If he was he wouldn't marry you. Some men are rather cold by nature, but can love just as true. (4) I should think you'd rather be able to see each other, if you love each other. (5) Ten p. m. is late enough.

RESINOL WILL STOP THAT ITCH

Recovered From Severe Lung Trouble

While we all know that plenty of fresh air and good food are necessary to persons suffering from lung trouble, something more is needed to bring about a cure. Eckman's Alternative is a medicine for coughs and lung troubles, and so many reports have been received showing that it brought about good results in a number of cases which were declared hopeless, that all sufferers who are troubled, otherwise, should at least investigate it. It has done for others. It may be the means of restoring you to health. Investigate this case.

"Gentlemen: In December, 1908, and March, 1909, I was taken with colds and rashes of the lungs, which continued for several weeks each time. My doctor told me very weak and I could not sleep. I kept on taking the medicine and improved fast. In March, 1909, I returned home. I think I am entirely well. I have good appetite and sleep well. When I left my weight was 120 pounds. Now I weigh 150, my normal weight. I thank God and your alternative for my health. If I ever help any other person suffering from tuberculosis, I will gladly (Sworn affidavit) PAUL L. MAKES FRIENDS AT NATIONAL CAPITAL

Mrs. William Howard Thompson.

Mrs. William Howard Thompson, wife of the new U. S. senator from Kansas, has been in Washington since before the inauguration and has already made a host of friends. She is the daughter of the late Lieut. Governor A. J. Felt and is an active member of the D. A. R. She has three children, one a baby of two years and the others a son and daughter of fourteen and sixteen, who are in school in Kansas.

GOOD NEWS

Many Gazette Readers Have Heard It and Have Profited Thereby.

"Good news travels fast," and the thousands of bad back sufferers in Jansville, are glad to learn where relief may be found. Many a lame weak and aching back is bad no more, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills. Our citizens are telling the good news of their experience with this tested remedy. Here is an example worth reading:

Mrs. B. F. Jones, 419 Western Ave., Jansville, Wis., says: "My back was so painful, that I had to go around all stooped over and sometimes there was weakness through my loins that made it impossible for me to stand. I did not sleep well and it seemed as if a weight was tied to my back. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended, I got a box at the People's Drug Co. and began using them. They cured me and at that time I was pleased to make the fact known by means of a public statement. I take pleasure in confirming all I have previously said regarding Doan's Kidney Pills and add that I value them as highly as ever. JANESVILLE PHONE COMPANIES DISPUTE BEFORE COMMISSION

Bell Company Questions Constitutionality of Physical Connection Law in Reply to McGowan's Complaint.

That the Wisconsin Telephone company regards as unconstitutional the 1911 Wisconsin law requiring physical connection of two telephone companies when a patron demands a connection with another line, is the stand taken by the Wisconsin company in its answer to a complaint filed with the state railroad commission by E. H. McGowan of Janesville. McGowan petitioned the commission for an order directing that physical connection be made between the Rock County Telephone company and the Wisconsin Telephone company. The commission will hear the arguments sometime in June.

Have Legal Objection. In protesting against the investigation demanded in McGowan's petition, the Wisconsin Telephone company, by Miller, Mack & Fairchild, its attorneys, contends that McGowan has no authority to present such a petition and that the physical connection law conflicts with both the state and federal constitutions in that the order asked for would deny it equal protection of the laws and the right of trial by jury, and would deprive it of property without due process of law and without just compensation. The answer says that the Wisconsin Telephone company's lines are operated in conjunction with the American Telephone and Telegraph company, engaged in interstate commerce, and that in an order requiring physical connection with the Rock County lines will interfere with and disturb interstate commerce. The answer also denies that the state railroad commission has jurisdiction.

Denies Inconvenience. The company denies that the petition, McGowan, is unable readily and conveniently to use the toll lines of the Bell company at Janesville because of the lack of physical connection between the two telephone systems. It admits that it has refused to grant demands for such connections and that it has not made any arrangements therefor. It says that the inconvenience and expense of such connections is not to be borne by the telephone company, but that it cannot be readily made and would result, if made, in irreparable injury to the owners and users, and in substantial detriment to the public interest by both companies. Such connection, it adds, would not greatly extend the use of the telephone systems or be of great advantage either to the community or subscribers, but that it would result in great expense and detriment to the telephone company at serious cost and detriment to the Wisconsin Telephone company.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

BACK DOOR FARMING.
(By Howard L. Rann.)

Back door farming is a genteel occupation by people who have grown tired of consorting with decrepit vegetables and octogenarian eggs. It is a healthful pursuit, as it causes two drops of perspiration to grow where but one grew before.

Back door farming is usually practiced by disgruntled taxpayers who own a piece of real estate which is too large for a n ornamental flower pot and too small for a croquet ground. After a man has lived in the city for several years and subsisted on radishes with a hollow center and green corn that will never see forty again, he will begin to look around for a few square feet of land where he can lay the foundation for lima bean soup and the pie plant pie.

There are several advantages about back door farming which appeal to men who are averse to the rude habiliments of toil such as the tube skirt overall and the bloated green denim blouse. The back door farmer can come home in the evening, eat a light supper and plunge headlong into the onion bed and the serried ranks of the rutabaga without changing anything but his appetite, which will rise up along about 11 p. m. and have to be appeased with the remains of a sponge cake.

It is not necessary to grow anything in order to be a successful back door farmer. The idea is to enthrone an appetite to the point where it will not attempt to run away from a 35-cent dairy lunch. There is nothing that will remove the inbred inertia from an enervated folk walker quicker than to get up before breakfast and gallop around a tomato bed on his hands and knees. This is hard on trousers, but it is better to ruin a pair of $4 pants than go through life dodging hot biscuits and buckwheat cakes.

The henpenny is a pleasing adjunct to the back door farm, and every once in a while somebody has vests a couple of weakened eggs therefrom. If proper restraint is placed upon the prying setting hen, so that she cannot scorch the bedding off the beans, she will repay for all the love and care showered upon her.

EVERY BODY'S CYCLOPEDIA

This Week Friday and Saturday Another Distribution on Same Terms.

Last week's big book bargain was such an enormous success that the offer is continued this week and next Friday and Saturday every reader of The Gazette presenting one cyclopedia coupon at this office can get the complete set for $2.35. There is no other charge.

This set is called Everybody's Cyclopedia and comes in five volumes, bound in English cloth, the size of each book being about the same as an ordinary novel. Millions of dollars are spent in putting out expensive sets that sell on the installment plan all the way from $50 to $100 each. Everybody's Cyclopedia is a combination of all the useful information contained in the large cumbersome sets, but it is carefully "boiled down" to meet the needs of all who require a complete, accurate and authoritative reference.

This offer is the result of the largest book order ever placed with a publisher, and readers are now given the benefit of it. The Gazette guarantees to refund the amount paid by any reader who finds Everybody's Cyclopedia is not entirely satisfactory and as represented.

Clip the cyclopedia coupon printed elsewhere in The Gazette and get this beautiful and useful set of reference books.

BROOKLYN

Brooklyn, Wis., April 29.—Martha Sperley was born in Logan, Norway, March 18, 1868, and died at her country home south of town last Wednesday. She came to this country at the age of fourteen years and settled at Stoughton. In 1888 she was married to Thomas Erickson, to this union three children were born, two sons and one daughter. Besides her husband and children she leaves to mourn her loss her father, another Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sperley, one brother Otto Sperley and two sisters, Mrs. Carrie Hansen and Mrs. Hannah Augustine.

She was fifteen years of age when she was confirmed at the Lutheran church at Stoughton and was a continuous member until her death. She had been in poor health for four years but immediate death was caused from a stroke of paralysis.

HEALTH SUPERVISION STRONGLY ENDORSED

Dr. Arthur G. Sullivan Gives Graphic Account of What Has Been Accomplished in Madison Schools.

Systematic supervision of the health of public school children was given a very convincing endorsement by Dr. Arthur G. Sullivan, Supervisor of Health in the Madison schools, in an address delivered last evening at the Royal theatre under the auspices of the Janesville Anti-Tuberculosis Society. Dr. Sullivan made his talk exceedingly interesting, speaking in a free and informal manner, and giving touching incidents that arose in the pursuit of his duties. Most of his talk was devoted to a description of the Madison system, the circumstances attending its establishment, and what had been accomplished during the first year of its operation.

Sixty-seven per cent results were obtained during this period. That is to say that sixty-seven out of every one hundred cases of physical defects were given the attention that they required. The costs of maintaining the supervision was thirty-eight and eight-tenths cents per pupil. Applied to the Janesville schools at the same cost per capita, the total expense to the city would be $1,013.50.

Credit for the initiation of the system of health inspection in the Madison public schools belongs to the Women's Clubs of the city who brought the matter to the attention of a school board, and after much urging and presentation of evidence brought them to regard it favorably. The outbreak of a scarlet fever epidemic "clinched" the arguments of the ladies, so to speak, and Dr. Sullivan, much against his will, was induced by the school board to accept the position of Supervisor and do what he could to stay the epidemic. Every possible source of contagion was investigated, five hidden cases discovered and quarantined, all children in the schools carefully inspected for symptoms, the suspicious cases sent home and watched, and no pupil absent on account of illness, permitted to return until thoroughly examined. No more cases of scarlet fever developed.

Forty per cent of the "repeaters" in school, those who have to take studies twice before being advanced, are physically defective, said Dr. Sullivan. By discovering these defects and remedying them, the city is saved a great deal of expense in their education.

Every child becomes a Health Officer under a system of health inspection. They become very much interested and report every case of contagious disease or make it possible to discover them. Statistics give the impression that Madison has more contagious disease than ever before, but this is misleading. Previous reports have been far from complete because a large majority of the cases, especially of the minor contagious diseases, were not reported.

Dr. M. A. Cunningham gave a brief summary of the organization of the local Anti-Tuberculosis Association, its purposes, and its accomplishments. He spoke very highly of the work of the Visiting Nurse who had called the attention of Janesville people to many conditions that needed betterment. The Association now has $800 derived from the sale of Christmas seals which is deposited in a bank and growing interest, and will be used for some worthy purpose when the time comes.

A milk sediment tester has been purchased by the Association and a trial of it was made at the Janesville Pure Milk Company's factory yesterday morning. Six different samples were tested and one farmer whose milk showed an inexcusable amount of dirt stated that he would at once take pains to insure its cleanliness.

Mrs. Janet B. Day acted as presiding officer at the meeting and read the report of the Visiting Nurse which was read at the Union Brotherhood meeting. The picture, "The Man Who Learned," proved very instructive and was a powerful argument for an unpolluted milk supply.

CHAPTER XII.

The Payment.

DR. JAMIESON did not immediately return to his other duties. He knew that in this case care and skill would for a time continue in demand. Little sleep was accorded him during his first night. Ammonia—whisky—what he had, he used to keep his patient alive; but morning came, and Dunwoody still was living. Morphine now seemed proper to the backwoods physician. After this had done its work, so that his patient slept, he left the room and wandered discontentedly about in the great house, too tired to walk, too strained to sleep.

"Old—old—it's an old, tumble down rule, that's what it is," he grumbled. "Everything in sixes and sevens—a man like that—and an ending like this to it all. What it needs here is a woman—all the time, for that matter. But this one's got to stay now—I don't care who she is. There must be some one here to run things for a month or two. Besides she's got his life in her two hands now. If she left now might as well shoot him at once. Oh, when I die I want to go to a womanless world—no, I don't either!"

His decision he at last announced to Josephine herself when finally the latter appeared to make inquiry regarding the sick master of Tallwoods.

"My dear girl," said he, "Mr. Dunwoody is going to be a very sick man. He hasn't got any sort of proper care here. There's no one to run this place, and I can't stay here all the time myself. Even if I did stay all I could do would be to give him a dose of quinine or calomel once in awhile, and that isn't what he needs. He needs some one to be around and watch after things. This whole place is sick, as much as the owner of it. I reckon you've got to help me, my dear."

She looked at him, her large, dark eyes slightly contracting, making neither protest nor assent. He drew a long breath of satisfaction.

"Of course you'll stay," he said. "It's the right thing to do, and we both know it. You don't want to kill a man, no matter how much he desires or deserves it. I ask you to remain at least for a few days—or maybe weeks."

Her eyes still were on his face. It was a face fit for trust. "Very well," said she at length quietly. "If you think it is necessary."

It was that that Josephine St. Auban became the head of Tallwoods household. Not that week did she leave, nor the next, nor the one thereafter. The winter advanced, it was about to wane, and still she remained. Slowly the master advanced toward recovery. Meantime, under charge of the mistress, the household machine fell once more into proper ways. The servants learned obedience. The plans for the work of the spring somehow went on much as formerly. Everywhere there became manifest the presence of a quiet, strong, restraining and self-restrained influence.

In time the doctor became lighter in his speech, less frequent in his visits. "You're not going to lose that musical leg, Dunwoody," said he. "If you're careful you'll have two feet for quite awhile yet to come."

Dunwoody at last reached the point of his recovery where he could grin at these remarks, but if anything he had grown more grim and silent than before. Once in awhile his eyes would flicker on the face of Josephine. Little speech of any kind passed between them. There were no callers at Tallwoods, no news came, and apparently none went out from that place. It might have been a fortress, an island, a hospital, a prison, all in one.

At length Dunwoody was able safely to leave his room and to take up a routine place occasionally in the large library across the hall. Here one day by accident she met him. It seemed to her that she saw the tinge of gray crawling a little higher on his temples. His face was not yet thin, yet in some way the lines of the mouth and jaw seemed stronger, more deeply cut. It was a face not sullen, yet absorbed and, above all, full, now, of a settled melancholy.

"Good morning," said he, smiling, as he saw her. "Come in. I want to talk to you. But please don't resume our old argument about the compromise and about slavery and the rights of man. You've been trying—all these weeks when I've been down and helpless and couldn't either fight or run away—to make me be a Beatonite or, worse, an abolitionist—trying, haven't you? Please don't this morning. I don't want subjective thought. I don't want algebra. I don't want history or law or medicine. I want."

She stood near the window at some distance removed from him, even as she passed stopping to tidy up a disarranged article on the table here or there. He smiled again at this.

"Where is Sally?" he asked. "And how about your maid?"

"Some one must do these things," she answered. "Your servants need watching. Sally is never where I can find her. Jeanne I can always find—but it is with her young man, Hector?"

He shook his head impatiently. "It all comes on you—work like this. What could I have done without you? But yourself, how are you coming on? That arm of yours has pained me."

"It ceased to trouble me some time since. The doctor says, too, that you'll be quite well soon. That's fine."

He nodded. "It's wonderful, isn't it?" said he. "You did it. Without you I'd be out there." He nodded toward the window, beyond which the grass grown stones of the little family graveyard might be seen. "You're wonderful. I've seen you for what you are—one woman out of hundreds, of thousands. There isn't going to be any woman in my life after you. Would you mind handing me that paper, please?"

"Without you I'd be out there."

He passed the document to her, opened. "Here's what I meant to do if I did not come through. It wasn't much. But I am to pay; and if I had died that was all I could pay. That's my last will and testament, my dear girl. I have left you all I have. It is a legal will. There'll never be any codicil."

She looked at him straight. "It is not valid," she said. "Surely you are not of sound mind."

He looked about him at the room, for the first time in his memory immaculately neat. He sighed. "I never will be of sound mind again, I fear."

"Make this paper valid," he suddenly demanded. "Give me my sound mind, too. You've given me back my body sound."

Her lips parted in a smile sufficient to show the row of her white and even teeth. "You are getting well. It is time for me to go. As to this—"

She handed him back the paper folded. "You think it is only an attempt to heal the soreness of my conscience, don't you?" he said after a time, shaking his head. "It was, but it was more. Well, you can't put your image out of my heart, anyhow. I've got that. So you're going to leave me now? Soon? Let it be soon. I suppose it has to come."

"My own affairs require me. There is no possible reason on which I could stay here longer. Not even Jeanne!"

"No," said he at length, again in conviction, shaking his head. "There isn't any way."

"You make it so hard," said she. "Why are you so stubborn?"

"Listen!" He turned, and again there came back to his face the old fighting flush. "I faced the loss of a limb and said: 'I couldn't stand that and live. Now you are going to cut the heart out of me. You ask me to live in spite of that. How can I? Were you ever married, madam?' This last suddenly."

"You may regard that also as true!" He set his jaw and looked at her straight. Their eyes met steadily, seeking, searching. They now again, opposed, stood on the firing lines as he had said.

"But you told me—" she began.

"I told you nothing. If you will remember. I only said that if you could feel as I did I'd let the heavens fold as a scroll before I'd ask a word about your past. I'd begin all the world all over again, right here. So far as I am concerned I wouldn't even care about the law. But you're not so lawless as I am. And somehow I've got to thinking—a little—of your side of things."

"The law does not prevent my doing as I like," she replied. "It was agony that showed on his face at this."

"Suppose I should tell you that all the time I was talking to you about what I felt, there was a wall, a great wall, for ever between us?"

"In that case I should regret God had made a man so forgetful of honor. I should be glad heaven had left me untouched by anything such a man could say. Suppose that? Why, suppose I had cared—" faith, for the cause."

"For what cause? What cause do you mean?"

"The cause of the world," she answered vaguely. "The cause of humanity. Oh, the world's so big, and we're so very little. Life runs away so fast. So many suffer in the world, so many want it is right for us, more fortunate, to take all, to eat in greed, to sleep in sloth, to be free from care, when there are thousands all over the world needing food, aid, sympathy, opportunity, the chance to grow?"

"Oh!" she bent her hands together, as was sometimes her way—"America, this great west, this splendid country where the feet are hurrying on so fast, fast—and the steam now carries men faster, faster, so that it may be done—it may be done—without delay—why, all this America must one day give over war and selfishness, just as we two have tried to give over war and selfishness, right here, right now. Do you suppose this world was made just to hold selfishness and unhappiness? Do you think that's all there ever was to the plan of life? Ah, no! There's something in living beyond eating and drinking and sleeping and begetting. Faith—a great faith in something, some plan ahead, some purpose under you—ab, that's living!"

"But they banished you for that?"

"Yes, that's why they put me out of Washington, I suppose. I've been twice banished. That's why I came here to this country. Maybe, sir, that is why I came to you, here. Who shall say as to these things?"

His throat worked strongly. There was some struggle in the man. At last he spoke, and quietly. "I see what separates us now. It is the wall of our convictions. You are specifically an abolitionist, just as you are in general a revolutionist. I'm on the other side. That's between us, then? An abstraction?"

APRIL 30

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

You will form fascinating acquaintances and will spend money, for which you will gain no material benefits, instead you will suffer illness or disappointment. These things are all subject to your choice.

Those born today will have lovable dispositions, a little romantic and easily deceived by graceful speeches. They should be taught the stubborn facts about human nature when they are young.

AVOID DANGEROUS OPERATIONS FOR APPENDICITIS, GALL STONES AND STOMACH TROUBLE

One Dose of Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy Will Bring Quick Relief and Convince You

If you suffer with stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, Gastritis, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Pressure of Gas around the Heart, Sour Stomach, Distress After Eating, Nervousness, Dizziness, Sick Headache, Fainting Spells, Constipation, Coagulated Food, Bile, Yellow Jaundice, Appendicitis, and Gall Stones, obtain a bottle of this wonderful Remedy and put it to a test at once.

It was any sort of time, a moment, an hour, before there was spoken speech between them after that. At last they both heard her voice.

"Now, you begin to pay. I am glad. I am glad."

"Then it is your revenge? Very well. You have it."

She went to him swiftly, put a hand on his arm. "No!" said she. "What I want you to believe is that it's life that makes us pay, that it's God that makes us pay."

"Is my debt to you paid, then? His voice trembled."

"So far as it runs to me, it is paid."

"What remains?"

"Nothing but the debt of yourself to yourself. I'm going to look back to a strange chapter in my life—a life which has had some strange ones. I'm not going to be able to forget, of course, what you've said to me. A woman loves to be loved. When I go, I go; but I want to look back now and then and see you are still paying and getting richer with each act of courage, when you pay to yourself, not me."

"Ah, fanatic! Ah, visionary! Ah, dreamer, dreamer! And you?"

"That is the rest of the debt. Each of us has suffered. Mine own is for the

AWFUL STOMACH SUFFERING.

One dose will positively prove its great powers to cure. Over one hundred thousand sufferers have taken it; some had dangerous dangerous surgical operations with but temporary relief, who now state that Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy completely cured them. It is the most widely known and successful remedy for all Stomach, Liver and Intestinal ailments.

Ask for interesting literature and convincing testimonials regarding this remarkable Remedy. Give it a trial today. You will be convinced of its great curative powers no matter how skeptical you may be now. Send for FREE valuable booklet on Stomach Ailments to Geo. H. Mayr, Mfg. UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams

BY WALT MASON

Don't think you're the only old boy that is lonely, discouraged, downhearted, world-beaten and blue; the world's pretty rosy, and others are as deeply as you. But others are braver, their souls have the savor of courage undimmed, the courage that wins; when effort seems futile and Fortune is brutal, they OTHER take what she hands them PEBBLES and greet her with grins.

So Fortune grows weary of swatting these cheery unquenchable fellows, who will not repine; these smiling humblers she takes by the fingers and leads them to regions of roses and wine. But you sit brooding, your eyeballs protruding, your whiskers awash in a fourflusher's tears, you look, while you're straining your innards complaining, a statue of grief from your heels to your ears.

Dame Fortune will spy you, and if she comes night you shall find you a brickbat instead of a rose; she hasn't much kindness for men who have blindness for everything here but their own private woes. So cut out the growling and moaning, and slouching, and show you're a scrappier named Scrapperovitch; go forth to your labors, like stout-hearted neighbors, and soon you'll be happy and sassy and rich.

TRY THE GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY

It always gives me pleasure to recommend anything that is right and so I feel it my duty to herald the praises of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

For years I was troubled with kidney disease and it was so intense that I was bedridden for days at a time. I gave up all hope and doctors for miles around gave me no help. I accidentally tried several patent remedies and at last tried Swamp-Root. From the first it gave me relief and it was no time before I was able to be up and around and now I am perfectly well and able to work as I used to before my terrible sickness.

So now let me thank you for your wonderful recovery and take this opportunity to recommend it to all who suffer from kidney troubles.

Yours very truly, WALTER SHIRVER.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 25th day of March, 1912.

THE WALLOP.

The wind was sighing through the trees. A silly cat began to sneeze. A mouse started a suffragist. By sneezing when she played bridge.

The west wind howled indecently in the naked branches, but they heard it not, for they were in the Swiftleworth parlor and the plate-glass windows were down.

"I admit there is a certain fascination about your stickpins," she said, "but I cannot marry you. There are reasons."

"Name them!" he cried, and it was beautiful to see the way his square jaw set and his No. 40 chest expanded.

"Father hates you."

"I'll ruin his business and bring him to terms."

"Mother despises you."

"I'll come out for woman suffrage."

"You have a terribly shady past."

"We'll surround the house with shade trees."

"And besides, I was married to Jack Billencoo last Wednesday."

For a moment he was quite at a loss for a reply.

Should Have Warned the Maid.

"The house is so lonesome without you and the dear children," writes Bibbles now to the absent wife, who is with the family at her mother's. But the faithful maid-of-all-work writes: "Shure, mum, Mr. Bibbles hasn't been in until after twelve o'clock never a night since you left."

"Every Little Olive Tablet Has a Movement All Its Own."

Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver. Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Olive tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of harmful impurities.
